ABSTRACT

This brochure presents facts about public and private schools in Maryland. The average daily membership in the state in school year 1994-95 was 784,569.4 students. Statistics are presented on fall public and private school enrollment, the number of schools, and the number of staff employed. Other tables describe student characteristics such as race, language minority status, and economic status as indicated by participation in food service programs. Numbers of dropouts and graduates are detailed, and information is given about educational finance, such as per pupil costs and major state aid programs. Participation figures are provided for special programs, such as special education, adult education, vocational education, and correctional education. Some statistics about other services, such as school media centers, are included. Maryland ranks thirteenth among the states in current expenditures per student in both average daily attendance and per pupil in fall enrollment, but is sixth in per capita personal income. Public school teacher salaries in Maryland rank twelfth in the country. (Contains 33 tables, 4 graphs, and 2 maps.) (SLD)

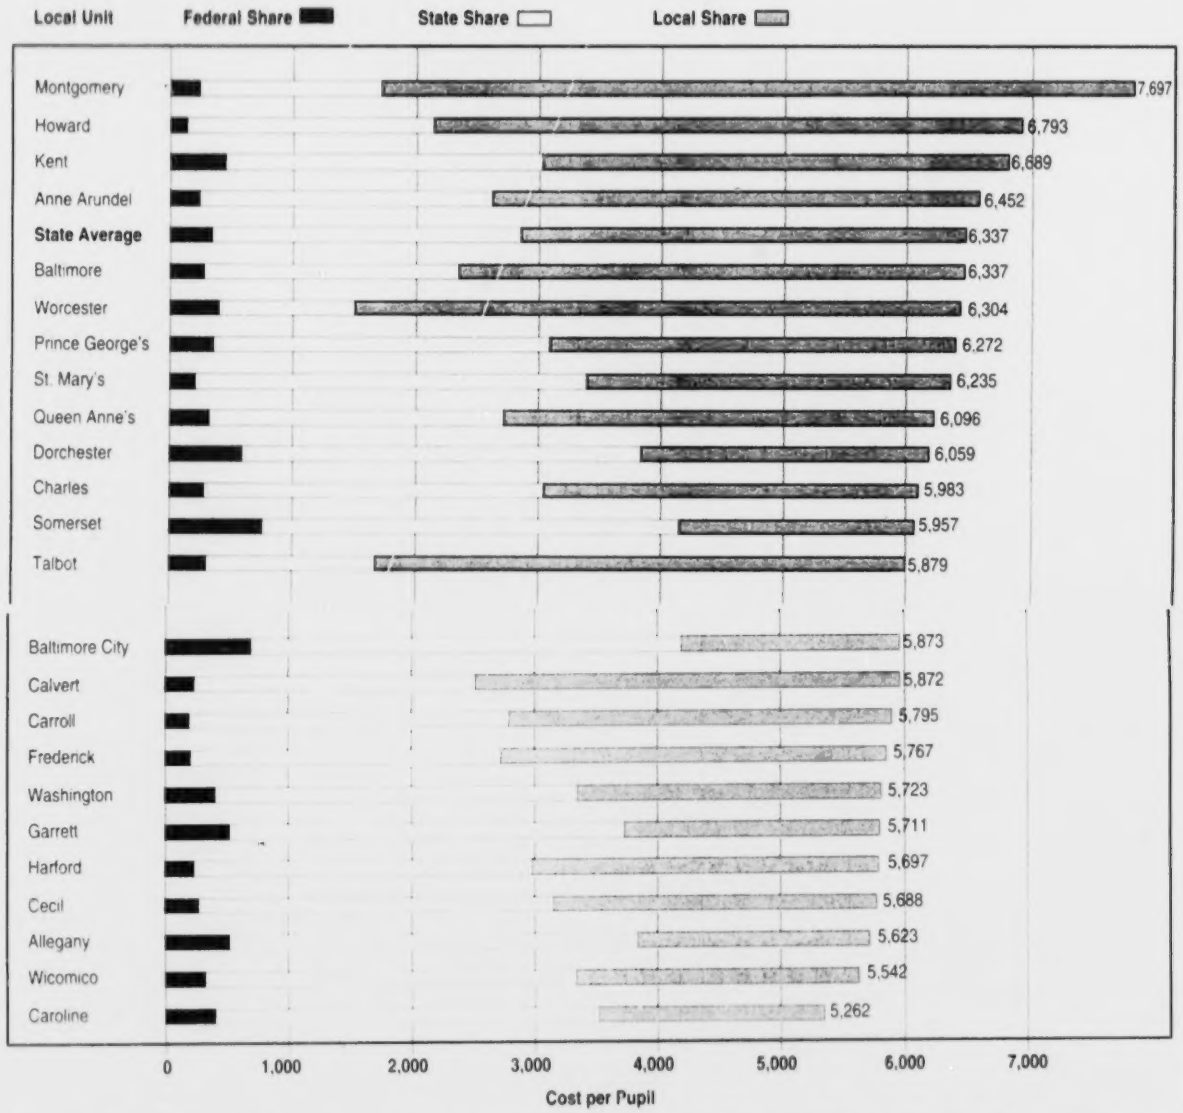
Cost Per Pupil Belonging* Maryland Public Schools: 1994-95



* Includes the following categories of expenditures: administration; instruction less adult education; student personnel/health services; student transportation; operation/maintenance of plant; special education; and fixed charges paid locally or by the State. Expenditures for equipment and payments for tuition are excluded.

NOTE: Cost per pupil reflects the average cost of providing educational and related services to the students of each local school system. Care must be exercised in using these costs for other than comparative purposes because the cost of programs and services among local school systems is not uniform.
